During periods of economic recession a lot of companies tend to start cutting back on trainings for the employees. With their extensive offer of trainings for lift truck drivers however TVH – group Thermoté & Vanhalst wants to stimulate the opposite reflex.

Invest in safety and efficiency

The time that is currently becoming available in numerous companies, can be filled in efficiently. The investment in extra trainings for employees pays off and, in addition, holds an attractive saving in costs in the long run.

After all, well-trained lift truck, reach truck, aerial platform and telescopic lift truck drivers contribute in different ways to a safer and more efficient working environment. This concretely means less accidents and consequently less disability to work, less damage to infrastructure and goods thanks to an adapted driving style, a considerable time-saving through a more efficient use of the transporting equipment, less failures and wear of the chains, batteries, brakes, etc.

Quality for a diverse offer

Employers are legally liable to take measures that protect the safety and health of their employees at work. The diverse offer of tailor-made trainings at TVH certainly meets these requirements.

The lift truck driver training is offered in 3 modules with a different duration, depending on the experience of the participants. This also applies to the reach truck driver training, where participants select modules focused on specific skills. The aerial platform training is the obvious training for each employee who is required to work with various types of aerial platforms and takes one day. Those who opt for the standard module telescopic lift truck receive a 2-day training, while training with specific machines takes 3 takes in this case.

All trainings are offered in the TVH Training Centre, but can also be given at a location as desired. Thanks to the collaboration of TVH with different sector funds, participating companies qualify for an interesting contribution. Those who opt for training at TVH, opt for a quality training given by experienced teachers.
